

Homepage with a top banner that is the main header. Main header includes the name of the restaurant. Directly below the main header is a nav bar with five tabs. Each tab redirects to another page (home button will take the user to this page). Right side of the page is a smaller column of images of the restaurant/food that is served. Left side of the page is a larger column with general information of the restaurant including hours and location. Along with the location would include a map representing the general location of the restaurant.

All other pages will contain a similar main header that generally describes the details of the page. The navbar will also appear on every page directly below the main header.

The font of the header will be monospace on every page. The font of all other text on every page will be Verdana.
